

Stone Underpants, a warming winter read!

Prolific children's author, Rebecca Lisle, will be making her picture book debut with Maverick Arts Publishing this November. Rebecca has teamed up with talented illustrator Richard Watson to create the hilarious Stone Age picture book, Stone Underpants.

Stone Underpants follows the inventive and determined Pod, who lives in the Stone Age and is suffering from a cold bottom. When the material of the age, stone obviously, proves to make poor underpants, Pod goes on a mission to create the perfect pair of bottom warming pants, but what can he use?

Stone Underpants is a hilarious story which will make for a very interactive bedtime. Children will have fun guessing what mishap will befall Pod in each of his underpants attempts. It is also perfect for the classroom. The Stone Age features in the key stage two syllabus and Stone Underpants would make a fun and educational addition to any Stone Age themed storytime or lesson.

Rebecca has been a prolific author since the age of 10. She has written short stories for magazines, but found her calling as a children's author. Rebecca has over 20 published children's titles, but Stone Underpants is her first picture book.

Stone Underpants will be published Monday 28th November and is available for pre-order now.
